

EXPLANATION

PhD

- A doctoral student who has published, or submitted a written confirmation of publication for, a scientific article in a journal covered by SCI (Science Citation Index), SSCI (Social Sciences Citation Index) or AHCI (Arts and Humanities Citation Index) will be entitled to take the thesis examination.
- Examining committee will consist of five members, including the three members of the thesis monitoring committee and two faculty members from other institutions of higher education.
- Following the thesis defence, the examining committee meets in private to decide by absolute majority to “accept”, “reject”, or “require a revision” of the thesis. The decision is submitted in written form by the Department Chairperson to the Graduate School within three days after the thesis examination:
 - If the committee rejects the thesis, the student will be dismissed from the program.
 - If the committee requires the student to revise the thesis, the student, after having made the necessary corrections, will defend the thesis again before the same committee (if possible) within a maximum of one year.
 - If the committee rejects the thesis after the second defence, the student will be dismissed from the program.
- A student who has passed the thesis examination will be dressed by the Committee Chair in academic regalia of the department.

Master

- The examining committee consists of either three or five members, including the thesis supervisor and at least one member from a different department or from a different institution of higher education. In case it consists of three members, the co-supervisor cannot be a member of the committee.
- Following the thesis defence, the examining committee decides by absolute majority to accept, reject, or require a revision of the thesis. The decision is submitted in written form by the Department Chairperson to the Graduate School within three days after the thesis examination.
 - If the committee rejects the thesis, the student will be dismissed from the program.
 - If the committee requires the student to revise the thesis, the student, after having made the necessary corrections, will defend the thesis again before the same committee within a maximum of three months.
 - If the committee rejects the thesis after the second defence, the student will be dismissed from the program.
