

EXPLANATION

- The doctoral qualifying examination consists of two parts: written and oral.
- The qualifying examination is held twice a year (in June and December).
- The qualifying examinations will be organized and administered by a five-member Doctoral Qualifying Committee recommended by the Department Chairperson and approved by the Graduate School Administrative Board. Two members must be selected from outside.
- In addition, two reserve members are selected where one must be from outside the institution and from within the institution.
- The Doctoral Qualifying Committee decides by absolute majority whether a student has passed or failed the examination, taking into account the report of the examining committee and the student's performance on the written and oral sections of the examination.
- The decision(Form 7) is submitted to the Graduate School by the Department Chairperson within three days after the qualifying examination.
- Students admitted to a doctoral program must take the examination no later than the end of their eighth semester.
- Students who fail the Qualifying Examination will retake it the following semester. Students failing the examination twice will be dismissed from the doctoral program.
- In order to take the qualifying examination, students must have a minimum score of
 - Foreign Language Qualification
 - 60 (sixty) over 100 (one hundred) on the Inter-university Board Foreign Language Examination (ÜDS) or on the Foreign Language Qualification Examination for State Employees (KPDS).
 - The equivalent scores on the TOEFL; (computer-based test: 170 and/or paper-based test: 527), and the IELTS (6)will also be accepted.
 - ALES score
 - Applicants must have a minimum ALES score of 55 (fifty five) in the category determined by the department. ALES score may not be required of applicants from countries other than Turkey, including the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus or other countries.
